Supt. Olhewen, of the Jersey Central road, said this morning that he did not think the Lehigh Valley Company wished to draw the Central road into the series. wished to draw the Central road into the sirks. He said that as yet the Lehigh Valley Company had made no attempt to ship any of its freight over the Central road.

road.

If it did so the Central road, he said, would have to take it under the law, as they were common carriers.

Should this be done, the Central road's men would have to handle the freight or be discharged. As they are Brotherhood men, this would no doubt precipitate a strike.

In his answer to-day Lawyer Flynn argued that the judgment against his client was invalid because she was served and sued in the name of Harriett Henderson, while her given name is Juliet. He then in a general way denied the service of the other papers claimed, and submitted affidavits in support of his claims.

Attorney Lehman argued that the papers had been served, and offered the affidavits of his clerks in support. He said Mrs. Henderson had been guilty of the most brazen and outrageous at the land outrageous at the said he had found it necessary to employ five detectives to keep track of Mrs. Henderson's movements.

Judge Fitzsimons took the papers in the case and reserved decision.
